Vice Chancellor, Senior Professor P. M. C. Thilakaratne, Dean of the Faculty of Education, Dr. Vajira De Silva, Heads of Departments, Esteemed Professors and Lecturers, Registrar, Bursar, Dear Graduates, Postgraduates, Proud Parents, and Honored Guests,

First and foremost, I extend my heartfelt congratulations to all of you here today. Congratulations to the Vice Chancellor, Registrar, Bursar, Dean of the Faculty of Education, and all the esteemed academics who have made this event possible. Congratulations to the parents for your unwavering support to your sons and daughters, and, of course, to the Class of 2024 graduates—congratulations on your remarkable achievements.

It is a great honor for me to address you on this exciting and momentous occasion. I am truly delighted to have the opportunity to speak to such a talented and accomplished group of graduates from one of the most prestigious universities in Sri Lanka—undoubtedly, producing the highest number of graduates in the country.

Allow me to begin with a quote from the late scientist Albert Einstein. Albert Einstein was a German-born theoretical physicist who is widely regarded as one of the most influential scientists of all time. Best known for developing the theory of relativity, he won the Nobel Prize for Physics in 1921. Albert Einstein said, "Life is like riding a bicycle. To keep your balance, you must keep moving." A simple statement but carries so much guidance for living.

As you stand at the threshold of your future, you are now in a position to ask yourselves: "How can I keep moving to keep my balance in life?"

The knowledge and skills you have acquired here will empower you to keep moving, not just for yourselves but for the betterment of society and our nation. In an ever-evolving job market, your higher education will open doors to countless opportunities. I encourage you to keep learning, remain engaged, and play an active role both locally and globally. In doing so, you will not only become a global citizen but also a person with a global mindset.

Allow me to take a moment to share my own journey. I began my career as a school teacher after graduating, equipped only with subject knowledge and little understanding of how to inspire my students. Yet, before long, I became a teacher beloved by my pupils, many of whom still remember me with respect. It was during this time that I realized teaching was not the limit of my potential.

Driven by a passion for education, I ventured into writing for children and sharing lessons with fellow educators. Eventually, I became a national-level curriculum developer for general education—a role I found immensely fulfilling. My hard work was fueled by a genuine love for what I did, not by external pressures.

Later, I had the privilege of joining the United Nations mission in Sri Lanka as an international civil servant. At UNICEF, I worked as a partner in education development, serving vulnerable groups of children affected by war, the tsunami, and other natural disasters. It is with great humility that I reflect on the contributions I made to improving the lives of these children across all corners of our country.

My time with the UN was incredibly productive, as it allowed me to collaborate on projects that brought globally recognized knowledge and evidence-based solutions to Sri Lanka. I am now actively involved in shaping national education policy, as I believe education holds the key to overcoming crises. It provides solutions to many of the issues we face and fosters recovery. It will be useful for you to know that the National Policy on Medium of Instruction in schools in Sri Lanka is now formulated just a few months ago. It includes short-term, medium-term, and long-term policy recommendations aimed at creating an appropriate language learning culture to reduce disparities within the school system. The policy further emphasizes the importance of every child learning their mother tongue, the second national language, and English as the link language.

Education sparks innovation, creativity, and critical thinking. It enriches both the individual and society as a whole. As we move into an era defined by artificial intelligence, the rapid advancement of AI will have profound implications for teaching and learning. Our education system must embrace the technical, ethical, and pedagogical dimensions of AI, and the future is wide open for you to explore.

As graduates, you are now ambassadors of this institution. The world is waiting to see the contributions you will make in your respective fields. Remember that success is not only measured by personal achievement but also by the positive impact you have on others. Each of you has the potential to be a change-maker. Embrace the challenges that lie ahead, as they are opportunities for growth. Take pride in your education and the values instilled in you by this university.

Lebanese writer and poet Khalil Gibran once said, "Education does not sow seeds in you, but rather, it makes your seeds grow." Your professors and lecturers have done their utmost to nurture that seed of knowledge within you, working towards the vision of the Open University of Sri Lanka for the betterment of society. Let me take this moment to commend them for their dedication and perseverance.

I am fully aware that your journey has not been easy. But now, you stand at the peak of your achievements, with endless opportunities ahead of you. You are armed with talent, determination, and the highest quality of education—ready to serve the education system. In this ever-changing world, it is important to remain adaptable. When the facts change, we must reconsider our perspectives. We cannot resist change; instead, we must extend the benefits of knowledge to those who remain marginalized. To keep your balance, you must keep moving, as told by Albert Einstein.

Finally, I once read that the world is made up of givers and takers. The takers may eat better, but the givers sleep better. While I can't provide concrete evidence for this, I urge you to be givers rather than takers. Through giving, you build communities, inspire others, and leave behind a legacy that endures far beyond your years. Let compassion, generosity, and empathy be your guiding principles as you embark on this new chapter of your lives.

I wish you all the very best in your personal and professional lives.

Thank you.
