

The Culture of Food Preparing and Sharing within the Household of Himbilyakada Village in Sri Lanka

This research proposal intends to investigate how people prepare and share food within the household in Himbilyakada village in Sri Lanka. Within this overarching research question, this study will further concentrate on the sub-research questions of how different factors affect food preparing and sharing within the household and how existing fallouts in food preparing and sharing shape/change the patterns of food preparation and sharing in the village. Preparing and sharing of food among the members of the household is the major focus of this research study. However, this study is just not only to explore ethnographic details of food preparation and sharing but also will contribute to theoretical debates in anthropology of food studies and to the ethnography of South Asia. This study will employ ethnographic research methods of participant observation, case study method and semi-structured interviews to collect qualitative data. Also, a vast literature will be included to justify the major thesis of this study.

Date & Time

08th June 2022

2:00PM via Zoom

Zoom Link

<https://learn.zoom.us/j/64961907126?pwd=SzllVEJFNWxManJlVDdoVi8yaW1Xdz09>

Meeting ID : 649 6190 7126

Passcode :3+hYDU2k

Moderator

Dr. S. Pathmanesan

Mr. Binara Angamma

Senior Lecturer- Gr. II
Department of Social Studies
The Open University of Sri Lanka

Mr. Binara Angamma is Senior Lecturer in the Department of Social Studies and working at the Kurunegala Regional Center of the Open University of Sri Lanka. He obtained his B.A. (Specialization in Sociology) and MA from the University of Peradeniya. His primary research areas are Medical Sociology and Medical Anthropology and research interests include kinship studies, doctor-patient relationships, food behavior, gender studies, and the ODL methodologies.