

Road to Successful Research Project Workshop Series

Dear students,

As the Department of Agricultural and Plantation Engineering, we have prepared a series of workshops called the "Road to Successful Research Project" to improve our students' scientific research background and presentation skills. AGY6880 Individual Research Project contains 8 credits of your total credit, and we want our students to complete this project with a good scientific background to carry out their future research activities as agricultural students. Therefore, we as a department highly appreciate your physical presence in this workshop series.
