Competition for the Official Logo Design of Infimum

Department of Mathematics, Faculty of Natural Sciences
The Open University of Sri Lanka

Infimum is the newly formed mathematical society of the Department of Mathematics, OUSL. It aims to promote mathematical thinking, curiosity, and appreciation of mathematics, while nurturing the analytical and creative talents of the OUSL community.

Its name is drawn from the mathematical idea of the infimum, the greatest lower bound of a set.

To mark the establishment of Infimum, the Organizing Committee is pleased to invite all currently registered students and staff members of the Open University of Sri Lanka to participate in the Official Logo Design Competition to select an official logo that reflects the vision, values, and identity of the society.

This competition is an excellent opportunity to showcase your creativity and to help shape the visual identity of Infimum.
